

Charting our way through industry requirement practices

Bill Kidwell, Ph.D.

Software Architect, Technical Product Owner (Charts and Add-Ins)

First University of Kentucky Requirements Engineering Workshop | Wednesday May 3rd, 2017

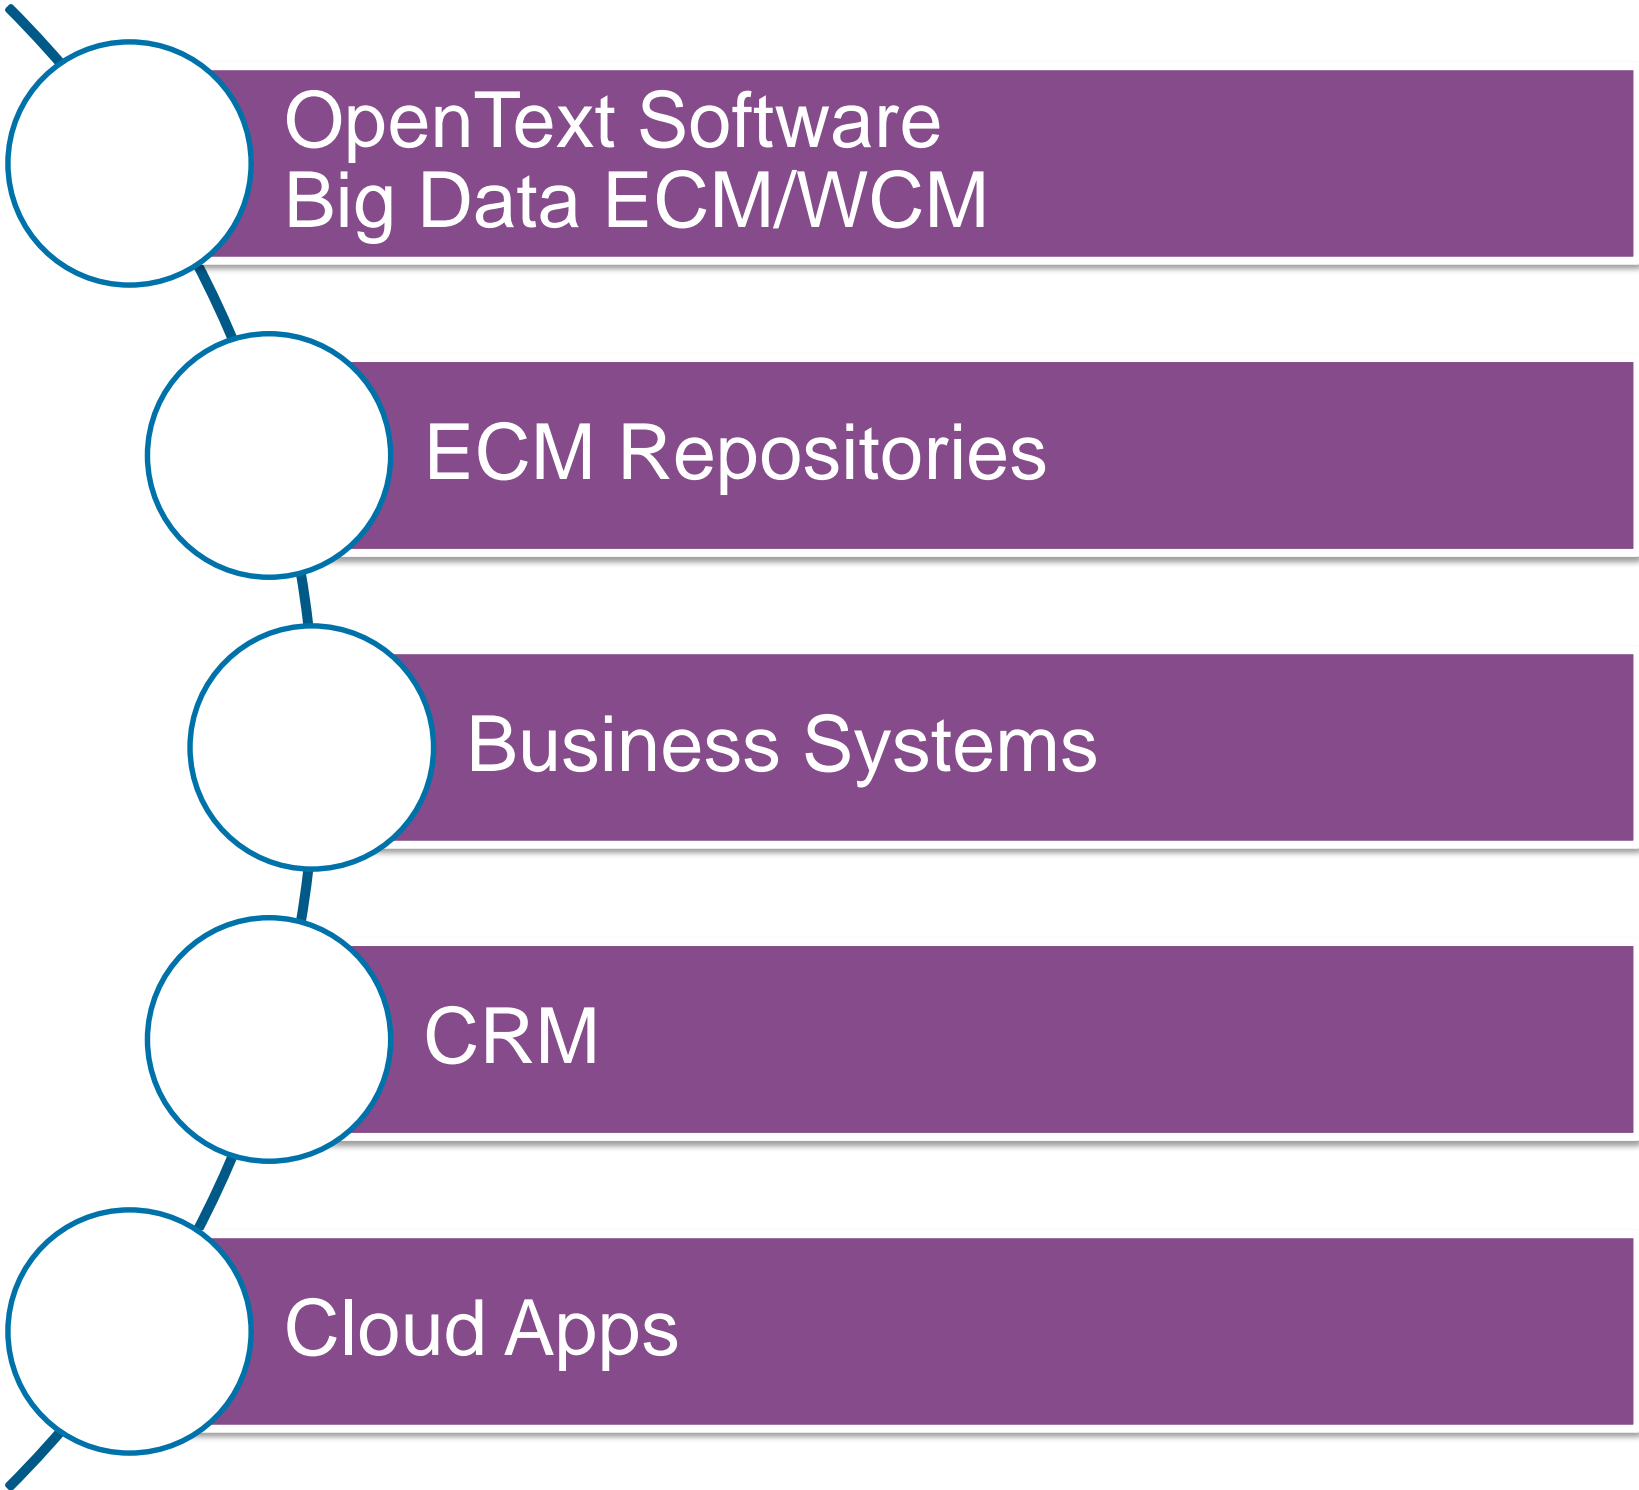

Agenda

- Context
 - OpenText
 - Exstream
 - The Project
- 5 Challenges
- Q&A

OpenText Business Value

OpenText Exstream Workflow

Web,
Email

Mobile

Print,
Interactive
Documents

Data Input Flexibility

Performance

Output Processing

Objectives for Advanced Charting

- Modern graphics
- HTML features
- Improved User Experience
- Flexibility
 - “Users want to create any chart that they see on the web”

Integrate the web!

Requirements

- Use Jira for User Stories
- Epics are features, program level tracking
- User stories must be < 8 Story Points
- Gherkin format for Acceptance Criteria
 - GIVEN... WHEN... THEN...

Challenges

Challenge #1 - Hierarchy

- Axis formatting

- Axis location

- Labels

- Font, Color, Size
 - Numeric, Date formatting and L10N
 - Frequency

- Line

- On/Off, Color, Width

- Range

- Min/Max Value

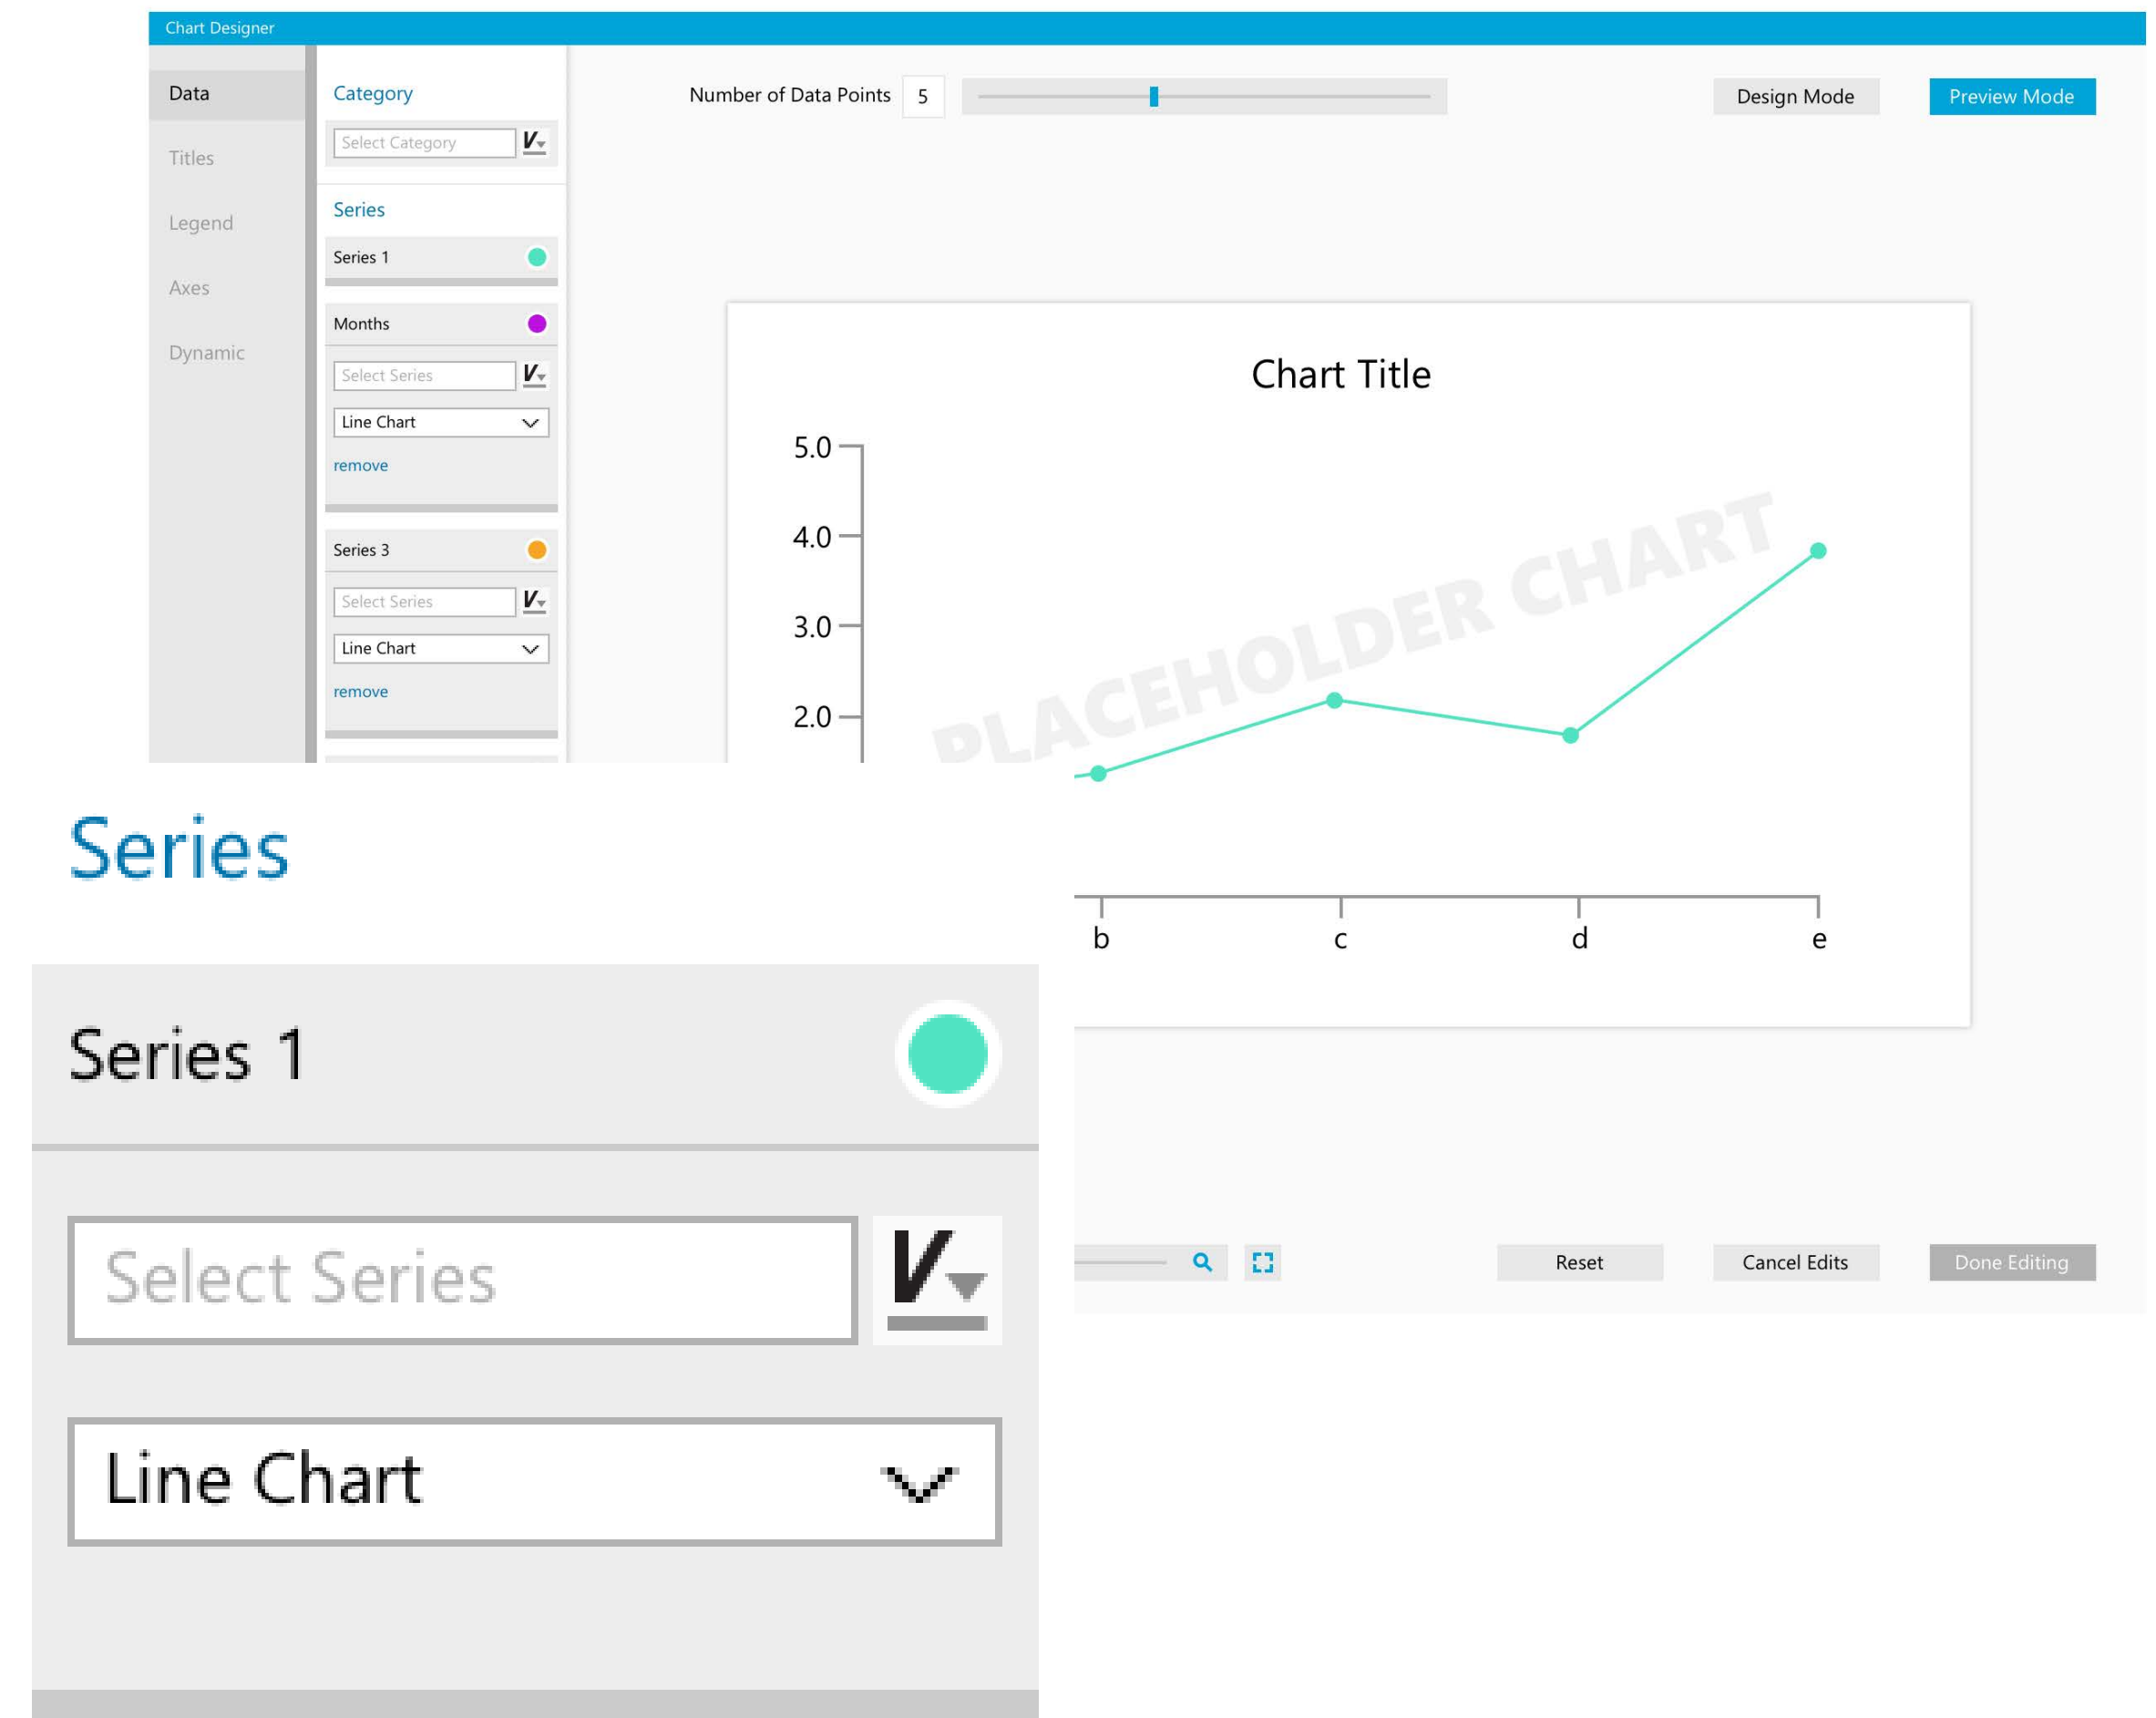

- Ticks

- Number of Ticks
 - Length, Color, Width

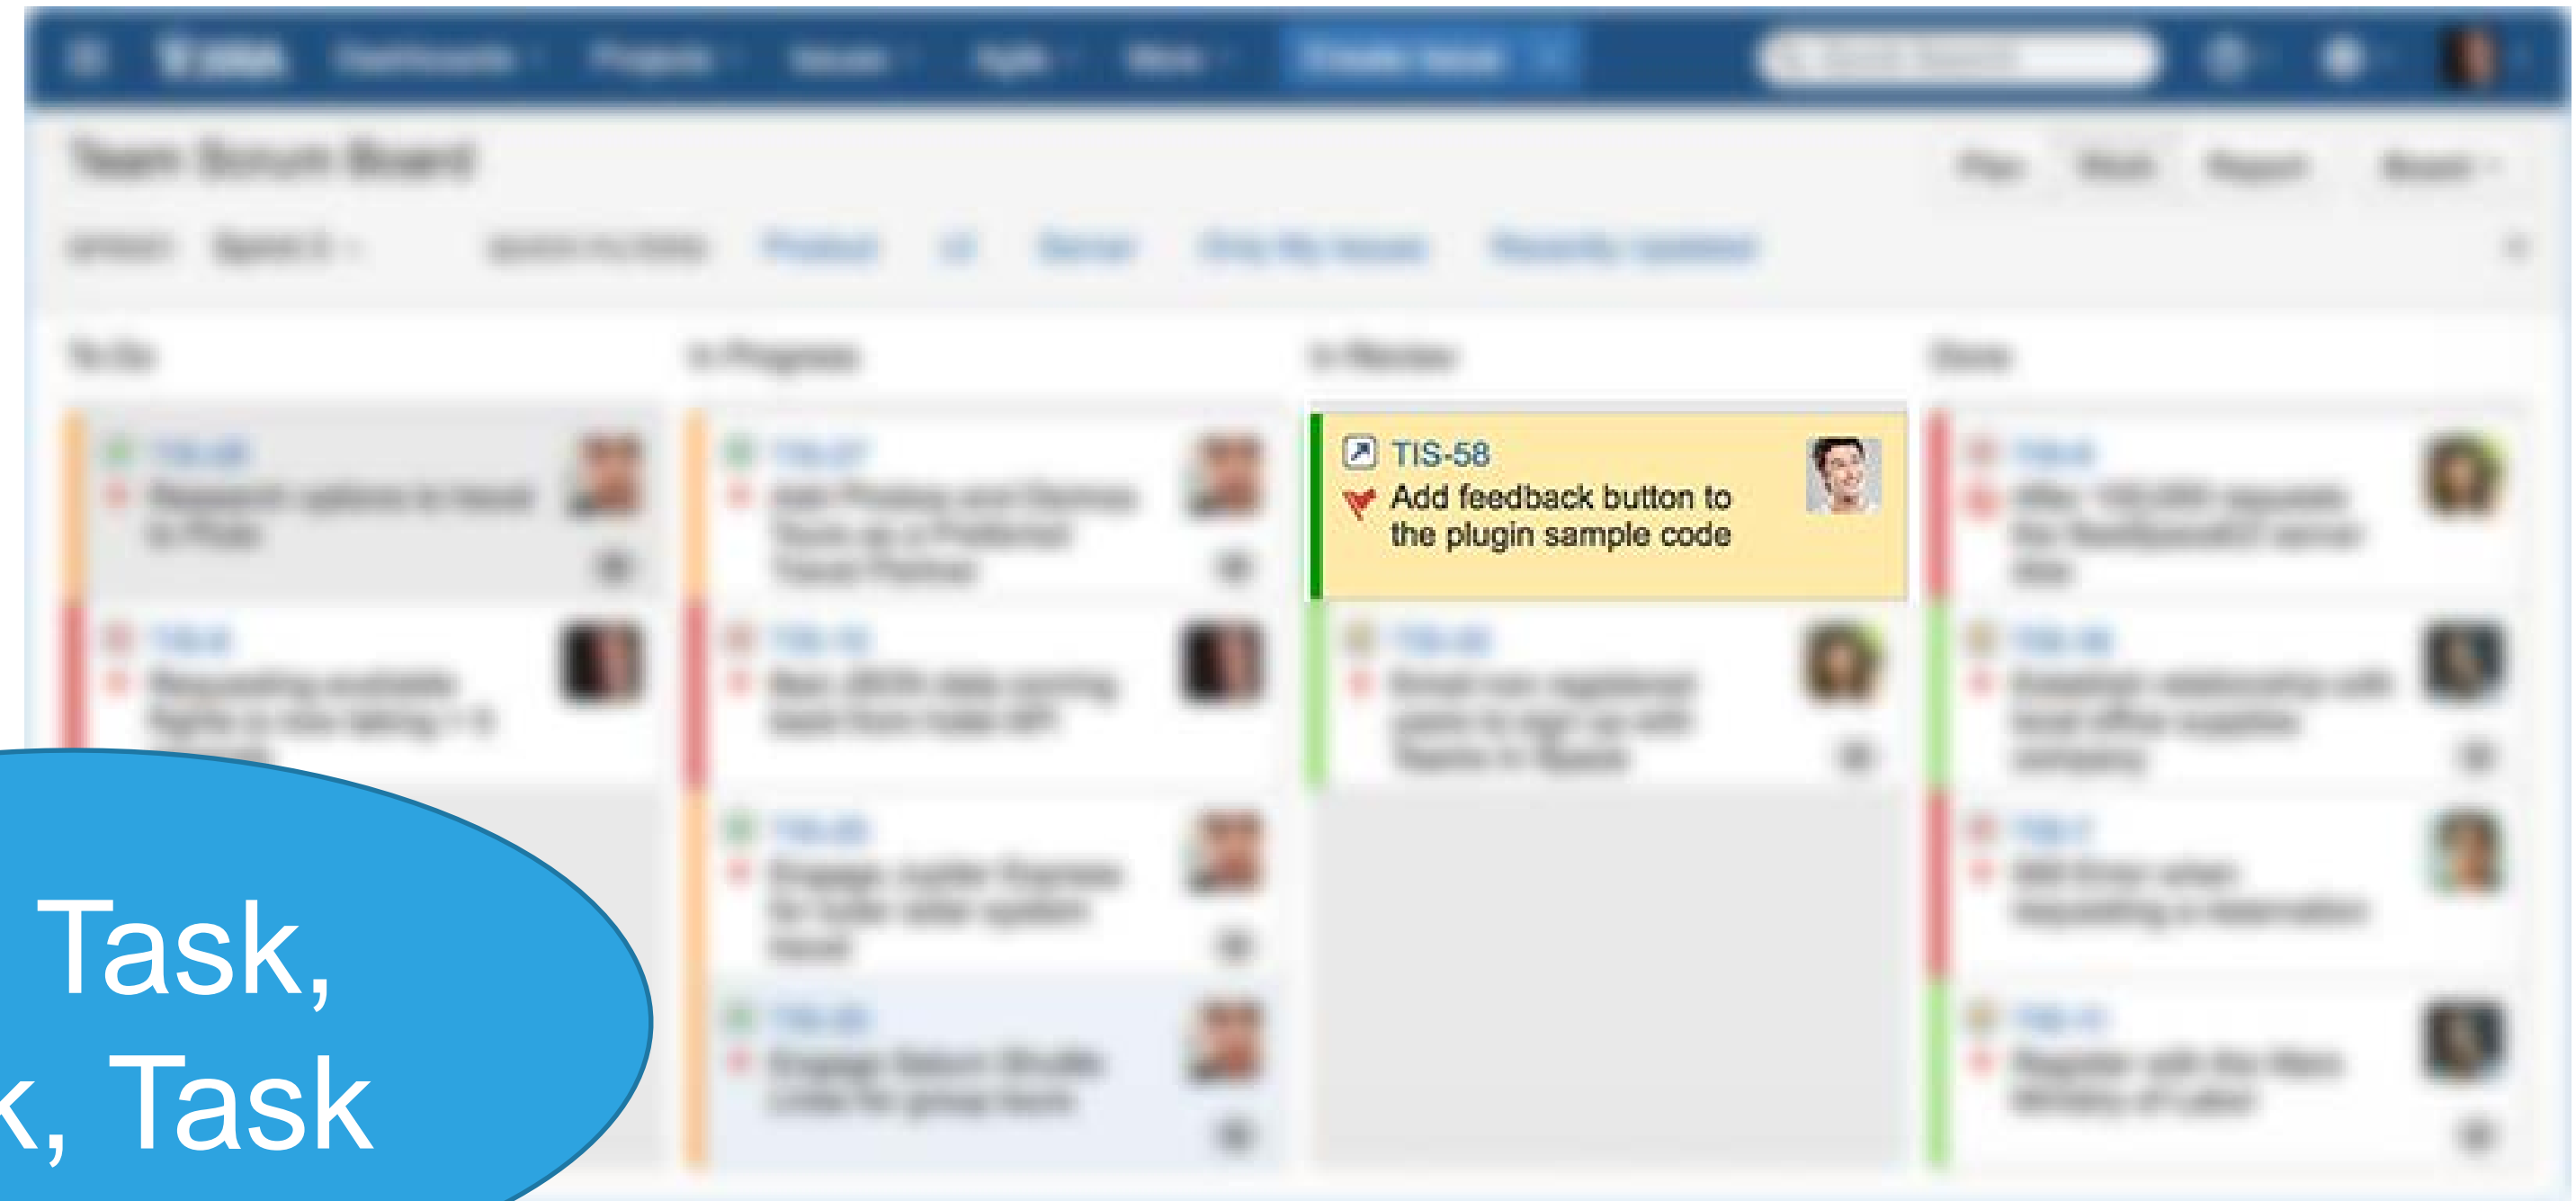

Challenge #2 – UX Design vs. Incremental Delivery

- UX requires upfront design
- UX and Spec are tightly coupled
- Good progress
 - Design ahead
 - Establish Principles and Rules
 - Modularize the Design

Challenge #3 – Tunnel Vision

- Loss of the big picture view
- Mitigation
 - Added use case write-ups
 - Focused on real usage

Story, Story,
Story

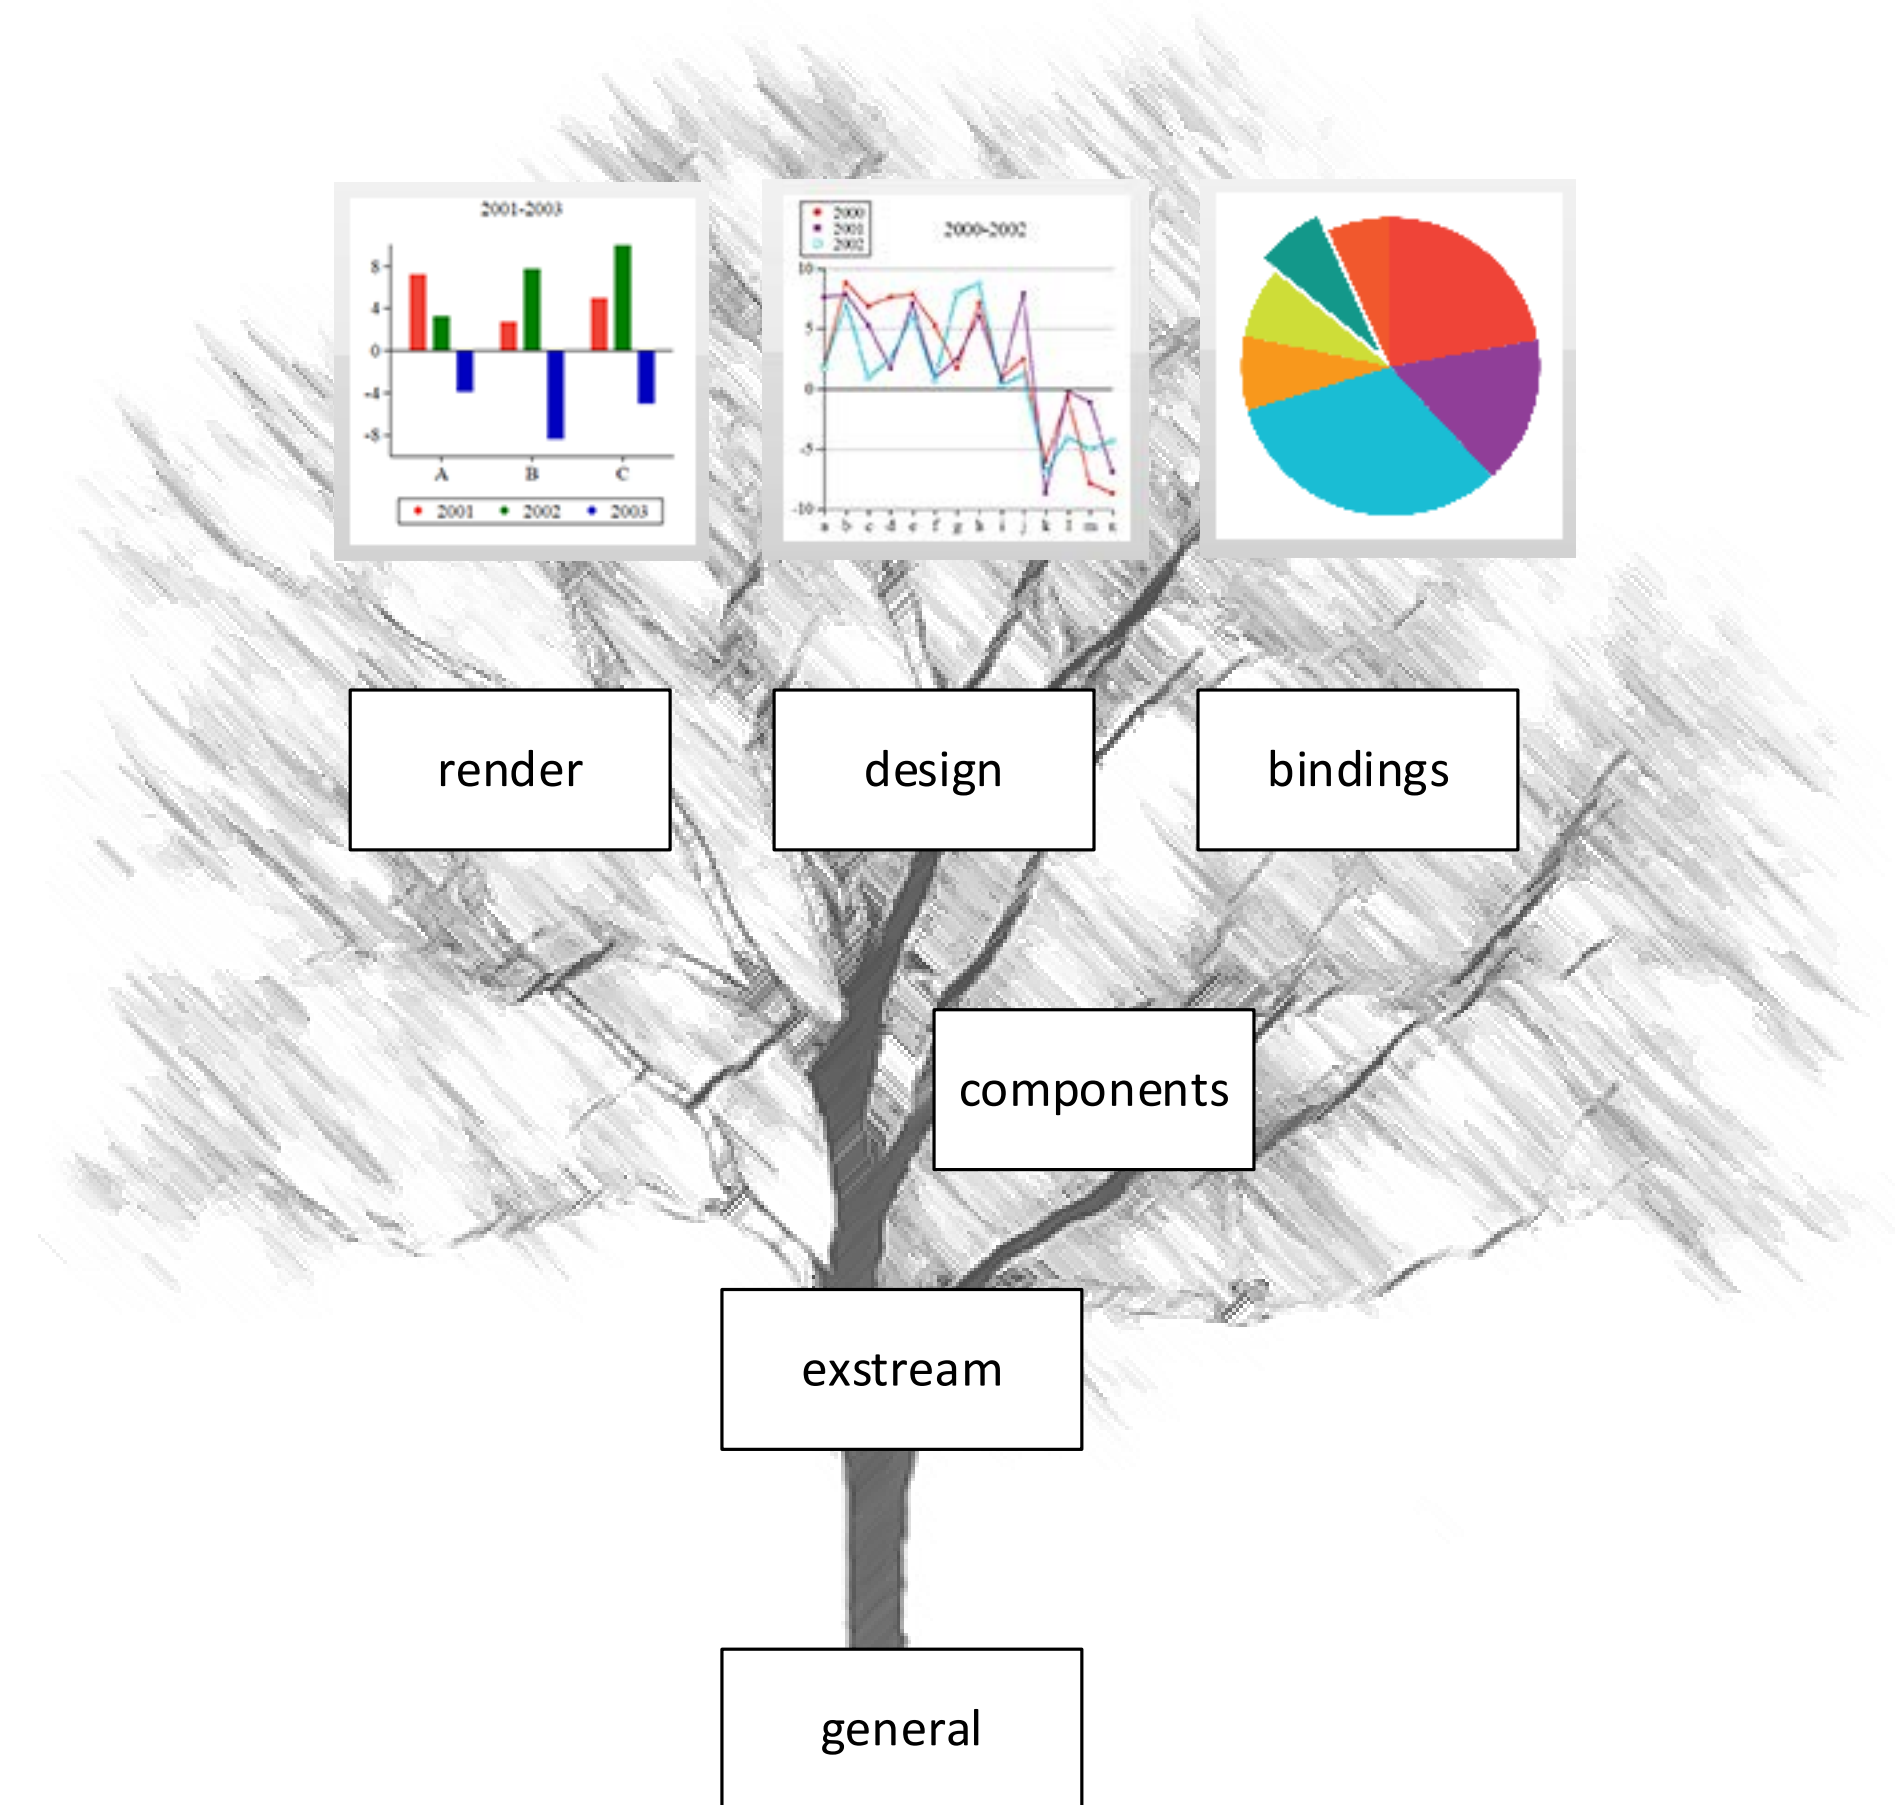

But Task,
Task, Task

Challenge #4 – AC sprawl

- Title and Subtitle
 - Anchor (Left, Center, Right)
 - Select
 - Format Text (including color)
 - Move
 - Align
 - Save/Cancel/Reset
 - Static or Variable Text
 - Error handling
 - Error when drawn out of bounds
- 85 GIVENs
- 46 Sections
- 4738 Words
- On average
 - ~ 17 GIVENs per story
 - ~ 950 AC words per story

Challenge #5 – Reuse and Requirements

- Framework for charts
- Libraries to separate concerns
- Multiple Add-Ins with very similar features
- How do we share requirements?
- Keep them consistent?

Q&A

Thank You

<https://twitter.com/billyrkidwell>

kidwell.bill@gmail.com

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/billkidwell>